Hochstein School of Music & Dance

Walk into our waiting room on a Saturday morning or weekday afternoon and you'll hear the sound of music, of dance shoes, of laughter. You'll see tiny ballerinas in pink tights bounding up to the Dance Studios, orchestra students of all sizes with violin cases—or flutes, or tubas—and people of all ages peering through the window of our Music Lab eager to check out what's displayed on the flat screen. You'll notice people from all backgrounds, from everywhere in our community, plunking down on couches and getting to know each other as they wait for a lesson to finish.

Whether through individual instruction, classes, or ensembles in Music, Dance and Expressive Arts (music/dance/art therapy) programs, we aim to nurture and inspire each individual, and to welcome all to our community of musicians, dancers, and audiences.

At Hochstein, our mission is simple: to provide excellent music and dance instruction to anyone who is interested—regardless of age, level of skill, background, or ability to pay. To that end, each year we award as much as $300,000 in need-based scholarships.

Every day, our students take part in a journey of learning from a richly talented, experienced faculty. Sharing this journey is what we're all about.

Gather with us! Play, Sing, Dance, Learn!
