Hochstein Announces New Director of Development & Community Engagement

ROCHESTER, N.Y.— The Hochstein School is pleased to announce the appointment of new Director of Development & Community Engagement Alette Jordan.

Jordan comes to Hochstein from Garth Fagan Dance, where she was Director of Development since March 2018. Prior to that, she held an Operations and Grants Management role for the United Jewish Appeal in New York City, where she facilitated grant processing and oversaw the implementation of a new web interface system for UJA clients. Jordan also worked at the Bank Street College of Education as Director of Development and Alumni Relations, at Syracuse University as Director of Development, and at the University of Rochester as Associate Director of Development. A Rochester native and alumnus of SUNY Brockport, Jordan has more than 12 years of experience in fundraising and development and is completing the executive master’s degree in Communications Management at the Newhouse School of Public Communications at Syracuse University.

Hochstein President & Executive Director Margaret Quackenbush says, “Alette brings a great breadth and depth of experience as well as an outstanding record of success in development work, and her Rochester roots and passion for arts education will serve Hochstein well. I’m delighted that she has chosen to join us and help Hochstein thrive.”
